ANNUAL REPORT 2013

UNIVERSITY LIBRARIAN'S MESSAGE

This is my first formal Annual Report of the Fiji National University Library Services (FNULS). In this report, we have tried to capture the dynamic changes that have taken place over the year 2013 and highlight some events that have made an impact on the overall performance of the University. We hope that this report will provide a glimpse into our services, resources, special projects and the overall direction in which Library Services is moving.

The year 2013 was impressive in several ways for the Library. It was the year in which we reached important milestones. Even if monetary and human resource challenges resulted in the deferment of some planned initiatives that would have further enhanced the development of more facilities and services, the year saw advances in several directions in the Library as many of the set targets based on the Library's Annual plan were accomplished. I am proud to present this report underlining a few of our contributory advances notable in the year 2013 as depicted below.

- Accreditation of ISO 9001:2008 for FNU libraries
- Round-the-clock access to 4 larger libraries
- Increase of acquisitions of varied electronic information resources
- Increased cost savings of electronic information resources

- Introducing higher education certificate, diploma and Bachelor of Library and Information Systems programme
- Signing a Memorandum of Understanding (MOA) with EIFL
- Setting up and leading the Fiji Library Consortium with Fiji's 10 largest libraries
- Inculcating Information Literacy (IL) into the academic curriculum

In closing, I would like to acknowledge and thank library staff at all 17 FNU libraries across the country for their dedication and on-going commitment to the delivery of high quality library services. We achieved much this year, and our successes are directly attributable to the dedication and hard work of our staff and the support given by academic and support services departments in the University. These speak of a trust relationship which we cherish and wish to strengthen in years to come.

ISO 9001:2008 ACCREDITATION

FNULS embarked on acquiring International Standard Organization (ISO) 9001:2008 certification to get ahead of the competition in information service provision and quality management. The library was granted ISO 9001:2008 certification in 2013. This is a milestone achievement for FNU Library Services, proving its commitment towards academic excellence. It means that our management systems and practices are benchmarked with the best practices of libraries all over the world. FNU's library system is the first university library in the South Pacific to bag this international repute.

This reverberates splendidly with the University vision of being a premier national university and a regional hub in the Pacific region. Being blessed with ISO Certification, FNULS shall synergistically propel

Fiji National University libraries are now ISO 9001 certified!

Vision

To be a dynamic, inclusive and competitive world-class library, catalyst to scholarship and excellence to teaching, learning, research and community endeavors of the FNU.

University Librarian, Dr Chaminda Jayasundara, on ISO 9001 Certification
"This award is a confirmation that our Quality Management System is documented and is being practised. It is an assurance that the Fiji National University library has the ability to consistently provide high quality information resources and services that meet applicable regulatory requirements and enhance our student and staff satisfaction with a view to equip our graduates with relevant knowledge and skills as we mould them into smart citizens. This reverberates splendidly with our vision of being a premier national university and a regional hub in the Pacific. The certification will not only improve our performance and quality of our services, but also improve our corporate image and give us a competitive advantage over the other tertiary institutions around the world. Our FNU library system is the first library in the South Pacific which has bagged this international credit."

24/7 OPENING HOURS

FNU students have a new study tool available to them for the first time – round-the-clock access to four larger FNU libraries. The University decided to open the Pasifika, Samabula, Nasinu and Lautoka libraries on a 24/7 basis in response to requests from students for additional access to the Library's study spaces and collections as well as the existing IT areas. Other services available as part of this round-the-clock service, include issues and returns, photocopying, printing, laminating and binding etc. There were very similar patterns in the services and resources used over the 24/7. The most heavily used service during examination period was study space. Students also required access to other services and resources at the same time. The demand during non-examination period is for access to PCs. The 24/7 extended opening hours has been successful in agreement with the user statistics collected. The processes and systems established were effective and resulted in students encountering fewer problems.

ACQUISITION OF ELECTRONIC INFORMATION RESOURCES

In 2013, FNULS built its ever-larger collections of electronic resources, which is comparable with the other libraries in well-established universities around the world. The number of electronic journals and full-text aggregations held by FNU libraries has grown rapidly compared to year 2010, 2011 and 2012. The library newly introduced 5 largest electronic journal databases viz. JSTOR, ProQuest, Hinari, Agora and ARDI during the year 2013. Thus, the library subscribed to 42 electronic scholarly journal databases in 2013 and one electronic book database titled eBrary. In addition to that, the library was provided free access to The New England Journal of Medicine, OECD iLibrary, Paediatric Neurology Briefs and Nature Publishing Group Journals through the MOA signed with EIFL in Europe. Access to the IMF eLibrary Collection and

IMF eLibrary Data was provided free of charge by International Monetary Fund (IMF). In 2013, FNULS provided 96,002 e-journals and 78,390 eBooks for its users.

MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING WITH EIFL

FNU libraries signed a Memorandum of Agreement (MOA) in 2013 with EIFL in Europe to collaborate in electronic information resources and training-related activities. EIFL assists libraries and users in achieving access to electronic scholarly resources, negotiates licences with publishers on behalf of us, acts as an agent for the national library consortia, provides model licences and other resources for e-resource selection, evaluation and management and makes available opportunities for training and development through workshops and meetings and the provision of training materials.

EIFL provided access to 5 electronic databases free-of-charge having negotiated with their publishers, 3 webinar training sessions in different themes viz. New Model licence for e-book purchases, Model Licences - recent updates and opportunities for local adaptation, and Text and data mining: what librarians need to know. Fully-paid opportunity to attend the 2013 EIFL General Assembly was also granted to the University

Librarian. This event was attended by 82 participants from 47 countries who met to debate the latest developments in electronic content delivery and to discover emerging topics that have significance for libraries, and to share achievements from library consortia over the last year. Four key areas in the emerging LIS field were discussed in the assembly, with some experts from USA and UK presenting on the subjects of Redefining Research Assessment, Massive Open Online Courses (MOOCs), Open Research Data, and Text and Data Mining.

LIBRARY AND INFORMATION SYSTEM PROGRAMMES

FNULS introduced three Library and Information Systems (LIS) study programmes in 2013 in conjunction with the College of Business, Hospitality and Tourism Studies (CBHTS). This has been a long-felt need of the country as none of the local universities had introduced LIS programmes and all professional librarians in the country had received their specialised qualifications from overseas academic organisations. There are, therefore, few professional librarians in Fiji.

Bachelor of Library and Information Systems, Higher Education Diploma in Library and Information Systems and Higher Education Certificate in Library and Information Systems were initiated to deal with this need. The programme provides technical subjects and traditional management subjects which are needed to prepare prospective employees for the mechanics of librarianship. In addition, LIS programmes focus heavily on related disciplines such as knowledge management, archive and records management, information policy, etc and we find that these skills can be readily applied to other industries enabling our trained products to find information-related jobs such as web specialists, content developers, proof readers, researchers, information brokers, system analysts, business analysts etc, without becoming stepping in the traditional pathway of librarianship.. These subjects are useful for librarians as well, our goal being to ensure that librarians are well-rounded so that they are able to cater to different user needs.

During 2013, the library conducted modules related to the Higher Education Certificate in Library and Information Systems. Thirteen (13) students registered for the programme.

ACQUISITION OF REFERENCE MANAGEMENT AND PLAGERISM SOFTWARE

The Library subscribed to the EndNote Reference Manager for limited user licences in 2013. Since EndNote is an expensive solution for reference management requirements of the FNU academic community, the Library decided to subscribe RefWorks at the latter part of the year to provide access to reference management work which provides similar functionality but with unlimited access. Thus, Endnote will be replaced by RefWork in the year 2014. FNULS library subscribed to Turnitin.com only for CMNHS libraries. Turnitin is an online plagiarism prevention tool widely used in in the scholarly world. It is a proprietary system that allows instructors to submit student work for identification of unoriginal material.

FIJI LIBRARY CONSORTIUM

FNULS played the leading role in setting up the Fiji Library Consortium (FLC) and FNULS hosted a meeting to discuss the importance and different requirements of a Library Consortium for Fiji and the benefits that member libraries can gain from the initiative. The main aim of setting up a consortium is to promote sustainable access and exchange of knowledge through global leadership of libraries to improve the development of society and the economy. The FNU University Librarian chaired the meeting and presented a report of the vision and plan for the consortium with the assistance of EIFL and solicited feedback from the representatives of 10 institutions in attendance.

The consortium was successfully established with head of libraries of 10 organisations representing the University of the South Pacific, University of Fiji, Secretariat of the Pacific Community, Fiji Library Association, Pacific Islands Forum Secretariat, Pacific Theological College etc.

INFORMATION LITERACY INTO CURRICULUM

FNULS joined the Department of Communication, Languages and Literature of the College of Humanities and Education to offer Information Literacy to all students through COM 501: Communication Literacy.

This unit offers learners the opportunity to grasp various components of communication and information literacy. The learning outcomes of the IL fragment of COM 501 are:

- Formulating search strategies that will effectively and efficiently identify and locate relevant information

- Identifying basic reference sources, online catalogues, periodical indexes, and the Internet to locate and retrieve information for a selected topic

- Evaluating information sources for accuracy, authority, objectivity, purpose, currency, and appropriateness

- Demonstrating an understanding of what constitutes plagiarism and academic integrity.
- Posting permission granted notices, as needed, for copyrighted material.
- Avoiding plagiarism from their academic piece of work.

The lectures were delivered in 2013 and the students provided encouraging feedback for years to come.

INFORMATION LITERACY PROGRAMMES

In response to requests from the Colleges, Campus librarians in-charge developed an innovative information literacy programme to train students and staff with the objective of enhancing the College's overall research productivity and quality of education. The number of programmes and participants are depicted in the following Table.

NEW PRINT ACQUISITIONS

During 2013, the resource acquisition division of the Library spent FJD$1,079,761.48 to purchase printed resources including CDs and DVDs and the resource processing division of the Library processed them as per the international MARC standard. The Library purchased 3,415 books/CDs/DVDs, and 131 print periodicals, for FNU's five Colleges and the NTPC library.

NTPC Naviti	1,032.45
NTPC Namaka	853.05
Total	$264,680.94

In addition to the standard revenues generated, the Library saved some funds through free access to electronic information provided by EIFL, which was FJD $33,754.65 in 2013 (conversion rate USD$1=$1.86FJD; GBP1=$3.12 FJD). Also, the library was able to save a remarkable amount in costs through heavy negotiations with publishers for some electronic resources viz. JSTOR, ProQuest, RefWork and eBrary. The total amount secured was FJD $60,969.41 (conversion rate USD1=$1.86FJD). The Dean CMNHS provided FJD $13,804.72 for the staff lost books at School of Nursing. Thus, FNUSL generated a total of FJD $370,209.72 during the year 2013.

DIGITISATION OF EXAM PAPERS

An excellent way to revise for exams is to work through previous years' exam papers. This has been made easier by a FNULS project which has now digitised the last three years of FNU examination papers and made available them online. Exam papers have always been an extensively used resource in FNU libraries. Prior to 2013, the Library provided hard copies of exam papers in all its 17 libraries and we found that these are heavily used at all times of the year but specifically in the weeks leading up to examinations. FNULS started digitising all examination papers from 2010 to date and has completed the work, providing the digitised copies electronically to students and staff through Class Share.

MARKETING AND BRANDING

This is not an area which the Library has utilised consistently in the past but in keeping with the University's strategic focus, efforts to market the Library's services were undertaken. Two advertisements was placed in national newspapers on ISO accreditation and 24/7 opening and some articles were published. Some citations of newspaper articles are depicted below.

- “Gift of value to university”, Saturday, March 02, 2013. The Fiji Times
- “FNU plays leading role to setup a Fiji library consortium for improved access to information”. September 06, 2013. The JET

The University Librarian was invited by the Fiji Library Association (FLA) to deliver a speech on Fiji National University LIS programmes at its symposium at Tanoa Plaza Hotel, Suva and this opportunity was greatly beneficial to bring the message of new FNU library services and LIS programmes to all librarians in the country and to develop a strong network with LIS counterparts in Fiji. The University Librarian's attendance at EIFL GA provided a remarkable opportunity to bring the FNULS to an international platform where library representatives and publishers from 47 countries attended to discuss about their progresses.

The Library provided current awareness service to keep the user community informed promptly about all the nascent thoughts created in their fields of work and other related fields, manually and electronically. We disseminated information about our new acquisitions, manuals, training and funding opportunities 73 times during 2013 through FNU PR. We distributed library leaflets among form 6 and 7 students encouraging them to use the FNU libraries for their secondary studies.

STAFF TRAINING

The purpose of this training was to enhance the abilities and raise the level of the skills and knowledge of local staff in the library. In addition, we wanted to create an understanding of contemporary Western library concepts in both the theoretical and practical senses. This employee training programme included a formal new job hire training programme with an overview of the job expectations and performance skills needed to perform the job functions.

The other programme was a comprehensive employee training programme, which is continuing education. This is an important function that we believe will keep all staff members abreast with policies, procedures, technologies and trends in modern librarianship. The library conducted 16 training workshops to train staff in the following subjects:

- Handling and Disseminating Electronic Information Resources.
- Educating Undergraduates Through Information
- Information Arrangement and Use
- Online Resources for Effective Reader Services
- Values and Norms of the Library Profession: Role from Past to Present
- Effective Communication towards User-Friendly Library Services
- Information Resources for Effective Information Center
- Information Seeking Behaviour of Undergraduates and their Pattern of Library Use
- Exceptional Customer Service in Libraries
- FNU Library Policies & Procedures

The Library hosted a special presentation on “eLibrary USA & New Library Trends” delivered by Ms. Alka Bhatnagar, Regional Information Resource Officer, U.S. Department of State on Tuesday, 10th September 2013.

STUDENT EMPLOYMENT

The Library continued to provide financial support to students with the employment of some 6 students during 2013 in different FNU libraries. Student workers were exposed to on-the-job training which not only equipped them for immediate duties in the library but also provided them with preparation for the world of work.

OFF CAMPUS ACCESS

The FNULS provides access to a multitude of electronic information resources through the Internet.

Anyone can access these resources by using whichever computer available on any FNU Campus that is connected to the University's network. In addition to the traditional means of accessing, the Library provided off-campus access to all its subscribed electronic resources to currently enrolled students, faculty, and staff via EZProxy, with the objective of providing remote access facilities to part-time students and the others those who do not have enough time to spend in the Library, for library services equivalent to the services provided on-Campus. After logging in, users are directed automatically to the desired resources facilitating them to access them straightforwardly. The off-Campus facility was re-established in 2013.

WIRELESS FACILITIES

The University initiated providing Wi-Fi access to students. FNULS provides Wi-Fi access for users with portable wireless devices such as laptops and handheld Tablets. The access points allow users access to the Internet from these portable wireless devices while located within range. Currently Nasinu, Samabula, Koronivia, Raiwai, Labasa, Nadi, Lautoka, FSM-Pasifika, FSN-Tamavua and NTPC Nasese libraries provide Wi-Fi access, enabling the users to access library resources easily.

USER REGISTRATION

During 2013, a large number of students, faculty members and staff registered as members of their respective Campus libraries, as indicated in the following Table.

STAFF COMMITMENT

All Library Staff were committed in 2013 to providing high quality library services and developing FNULS towards the same status as other libraries in well-established universities. They performed a considerably improved role with user services, orientations, ISO implementation, stocktaking and buddy systems for the enhancement of new staff performance etc. Opening hours of all FNU libraries were extended. Four bigger libraries, namely Lautoka, Nasinu, Samabula and Pasifika, were open 24/7 and staff began working on a rostered basis even at nights. FSM – Tamavua, FSN – Tamavua library stated opening from 8.00am till 10.00pm The Maritime Campus, NTPC Nasese, NTPC Namaka, NTPCNarere and NTPC Lautoka libraries started opening from 8.00am to 5.00pm. The Raiwai library opens from 7.30 to 5.00pm. Staff in small libraries were reduced and made required arrangements to design them as OPLs (One-Person Library) which are led by a single person in each library without any peer assistants.

Working hours requirements for all FNULS staff were extended to 40 hours fortnightly, even if other departments of the University require only 37 hours. Further, all Library staff on night shift were previously provided transport facilities by the University. The cost of this service was considerable and the Library therefore reviewed the existing roster times and rescheduled the timetables, enabling staff to work at night without having official transport facilities. These are some examples of the initiatives by FNULS with highest staff co-operation, which speaks about their dedication and commitment which we wish to strengthen in the years to come.
