and Law (CHEL)

Monday 11th May 2026
FMF GYMNASIUM, SUVA

On behalf of the Fiji National University, I extend my sincere congratulations to the graduating Class of 2026. This is a proud moment for you, your families, and for our nation.

Across this May graduation, we celebrate 1,906 graduates, each representing perseverance, commitment, and the transformative power of education. Notably, 991 of our graduates are women, reflecting the continued progress towards inclusive participation and leadership of women in Fiji's development.

These achievements speak not only to individual success, but to the collective strength of our communities, the support of families, and the enduring values of the vanua. Your accomplishments are shared by all who have walked this journey with you.

As Fiji's national dual-sector university, we remain steadfast in our commitment to widening access to quality education and transforming lives across the country and the region. From urban centres to rural and maritime communities, we continue to create pathways that empower individuals and strengthen our society.

Graduates, you leave this University at a defining moment in our nation's journey. The challenges ahead are real, but so too is your responsibility. The future of Fiji will not be shaped by chance, it will be shaped by your choices, your values, and your courage.

Be grounded in who you are. Uphold integrity, even when it is difficult. Serve not for recognition, but for purpose. Lead with compassion and never forget the communities that raised you and the nation that now looks to you.

Wherever you go, carry the name of this University with pride, but more importantly, carry the responsibility that comes with it. Let your actions speak louder than your qualifications. Let your work reflect the values you stand for.

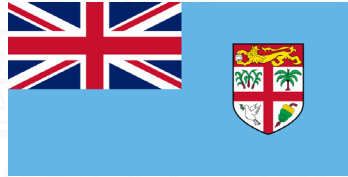

As you step into the next chapter, remember this, your education is not the end of your journey, it is your mandate to build, to serve, and to uplift others.

Go forward with courage. Go forward with purpose. Go forward knowing that you will always be part of the Fiji National University.

Congratulations, Class of 2026. Farewell, and may you continue to learn and serve with all you can.

With Very Best Wishes!

THESIS TITLE:

‘Siga Damu A Vanua’ – Weaving Hope Through Culturally Relevant and Responsive Mathematics Education in Fiji Primary Schools.

SUPERVISING TEAM:

Chair / 1st Supervisor: Professor Unaisi Nabobo – Baba

Co-Chair/2nd Supervisor: Professor Nii-K Plange

Supporting supervisor: Associate Professor Dr. Lavenia Tiko

ABSTRACT:

This doctoral study examines Indigenous Fijian Kuta weaving practices in Macuata as culturally embedded sites of mathematical knowledge, pedagogy, and assessment. Framed within ethnomathematics, Indigenous epistemologies, and situated learning theory.

A qualitative ethnographic design informed by the philosophy of the Fijian Vanua Research was adopted as appropriate for the study. Data were collected, and later triangulation, from participant observation, veitalanoa, and in depth interviews with expert and novice weavers.

The findings demonstrate that:

- Kuta weaving incorporates rich mathematical concepts, including, in contemporary vocabulary, measurement, geometry, spatial reasoning, patterning, proportionality, and computational thinking.
- Teaching, learning, and assessment are enacted holistically through mentorship (veituberi), observation, guided practice, and continuous formative feedback, emphasizing communal responsibility and mastery rather than standardized evaluation.

The study proposes an Indigenous Kuta Weaving-informed pedagogical and assessment framework for primary mathematics education. It contributes to Indigenous mathematics education scholarship in Fiji and offers insights for culturally grounded curriculum development, teacher education, and assessment practices

This study examines the theoretical foundations of the Fiji National University (FNU) teacher education program, formed in 2010 through the merger of Lautoka Teachers College and Fiji College of Advanced Education. Although considered a milestone, the transition lacked critical theoretical guidance, contributing to ongoing concerns about teacher education quality and preparation in Fiji. The first objective explored the historical, social, and cultural development of teacher education in Fiji through literature review, interviews, talanoa, and empirical data. Findings highlighted the factors shaping teacher education and their implications for FNU. The second objective developed a culturally grounded framework based on Indigenous Fijian knowledge using an Indigenous research paradigm aimed at decolonising Pacific research methodologies. The study's key outcome was the creation of the Yavutu framework, developed through ethnographic research across three teacher education institutions. Yavutu offers a holistic, inclusive, and adaptable model for teacher education that reflects Fiji's multiracial society and responds effectively to contemporary educational challenges. curriculum development, teacher education, and assessment practices
