“We have staff based at each of our main campuses across the country ready to assist students with their enrollment needs and provide academic counseling to parents and interested parties,” said Mudiliar.

“We have also set-up ‘pop-up shops’ located at strategic locations such as MHCC, TSLB office and My FNPf Plaza in Suva, Tappoo City in Lautoka and at the Ba bus stand. We have set-up teams at these locations to assist students and parents with the enquiries, issue offer letters and or guide them through the enrolment procedures and processes. It’s just a way to make information more accessible.”

Details of the operation hours of the pop-up shops are as follows:

Venue	Dates
MHCC	15 Dec, 2018 - 25 Jan, 2019
FNPf Downtown Boulevard	15 Dec, 2018 - 25 Jan, 2019 (except 26 - 29 December)

Further to this, the Fiji National University has scheduled two-day roadshows in the New Year at major towns around the country.

“We have scheduled visits to Navua, Nausori, Korolevu, Rakiraki, Tavua, Sigatoka, Seaqaqa, Nabouwalu and Savusavu. We will advertise the dates and time for this campaign in the coming weeks,” said Mudiliar.

“The main intention of the out-reach program is to capture not only students who have recently completed secondary education but also youths and those in the community who are interested in pursuing tertiary education but haven’t had the opportunity to visit our campuses to enrol.”

“Our team will provide professional advice to potential students and guide them with the enrolment process,” she added.

The Fiji National University’s enrolment drive will end on Friday, 25 January 2019.
